Items submitted for warranty cannot be disassembled. Our company uses marking paints and dyes to determine if supercharger bolts have been disturbed, bolts have been torqued, and temperature indicative waxes to determine how hot a supercharger was operated at. We take our tasks very seriously, so these tools help tell a story. We have before and after photos as well as disassembly photos that can be used in a warranty request. Since there are more than a dozen external causes of failure that can occur from the supercharger's environment, we have information that is helpful on the back of this card to help consumer's avoid issues.
